message from the president & ceo

Dear Mercy Street Family,

What a year it has been.

As I reflect on all that God has allowed us to experience, I am reminded once again that He is our Provider. He continues to do exceedingly and abundantly beyond all that we could ask, imagine, or think. This year has been another testimony of His faithfulness and of what is possible when people come together around a shared commitment to love God, love our neighbors, and invest deeply in the lives of young people and families.

This year, Mercy Street had the privilege of serving more than 6,000 students. While we celebrate every young person who walked through our doors, stepped onto one of our fields, participated in a program, or built a relationship with a caring adult, we are especially grateful for the spiritual fruit we witnessed. Seventeen young people dedicated or rededicated their lives to Christ, and three were baptized. Those moments remind us why we do this work.

We also saw significant growth across our ministry.

We expanded our Summer Camp and launched a new After School Program, allowing us to serve children more consistently throughout the year and provide greater academic, relational, and spiritual support. We were blessed to receive funding through the Crystal Charity Ball, which will help us continue going deeper academically with students in both our After School and Summer Camp programs.

We completed a much-needed renovation of our swimming pool, creating greater opportunities for young people to learn to swim, grow in confidence, and experience another form of recreation in a safe environment. We also expanded our partnership with AmeriCorps, strengthening our ability to place additional caring adults alongside the children and families we serve.

None of this happens without you.

Every donor, volunteer, mentor, coach, church, foundation, corporate partner, board member, staff member, and friend of Mercy Street plays a role in this work. We are deeply grateful for your prayers, generosity, encouragement, and belief in what God is doing through Mercy Street.

And we believe there is even more ahead.

As we move forward, we remain deeply committed to West Dallas and will continue to have a laser-focused effort on reaching the Dallas Housing Authority communities surrounding our main campus. One of our prayers is to see more children and families from these communities participating across the full continuum of Mercy Street programs and building long-term relationships with our ministry.

We are also excited to expand our Reading Buddies initiative through a new partnership with Southwest Airlines as they invest in C.F. Carr Elementary School. In South Dallas, we will continue strengthening our ministry presence through collaboration with Dallas Independent School District, St. Philip's School, and other community partners.

Our Sports ministry will continue to grow as well. We are blessed to be renovating our soccer field, which will allow us to serve more young people and create new opportunities beyond soccer. The renovated field will also support flag football and give us the opportunity to begin introducing more children to lacrosse.

As the ministry grows, we are intentionally strengthening the infrastructure needed to support that growth. We are adding a new Director of Finance and Operations, expanding our development team, and continuing to invest in the professional development of our staff. This includes deeper training and utilization of tools such as Salesforce, Martus, and artificial intelligence so that our systems, stewardship, and organizational effectiveness continue to mature alongside our programs.

But even as programs expand, facilities improve, partnerships grow, and systems become stronger, our calling remains the same: to build mutually transforming relationships with young people and families through the hope of Jesus Christ.

We enter the coming year with tremendous gratitude, great expectation, and complete dependence upon God.

As we move forward in what God has called Mercy Street to do, we invite you to continue the journey with us—or to join us for the first time. There are many ways to be part of this work: pray with us, volunteer, mentor, coach, give, connect us with others, or simply continue to stand with the young people and families we serve. We believe God is still writing the story, and we would be honored to have you walk alongside us as He continues to bring hope to every street.

Thank you for walking alongside us. Thank you for believing in our young people. Thank you for investing in the communities we serve. And thank you for helping Mercy Street continue bringing hope to every street.

For His glory and our city's good,

Fundamentals of Faith. Fundamentals of Sports.

Mercy Street Sports experienced another remarkable year of growth across West and South Dallas. Thousands of children participated in leagues, camps, clinics, tournaments, school events, and neighborhood outreach activities designed to help them develop athletic skills, build meaningful relationships, and encounter the hope of Jesus Christ.

The Sports team entered the year with a commitment to “Go Deep” by equipping volunteer coaches to lead with spiritual confidence. Through Bible studies, coaching clinics, devotionals, and Christ-centered program resources, coaches gained practical tools for connecting the fundamentals of faith to the fundamentals of sports.

Weekly Coaches’ Bible Studies created space for participants to explore foundational questions about God, study Scripture, and discuss how biblical truth applies to coaching. The group included longtime coaches, parents, ministry leaders, and people studying the Bible for the first time. Their experiences reflected Mercy Street’s vision of a multicultural, multiethnic, and multigenerational movement of God’s people working together for His glory.

A Year of Growth

Fall baseball served 356 players across 28 teams, while fall soccer welcomed 736 players across 62 teams. The soccer season concluded with an exciting tournament under the lights, giving children and families a memorable celebration of competition, community, and faith.

The 13th Annual Kershaw's Challenge Baseball Camp brought more than 225 children together with the nationally ranked Dallas Baptist University Baseball Team. DBU Head Coach Dan Heefner shared the Gospel with participants and led a special clinic for Mercy Street coaches focused on baseball instruction and faith-centered leadership.

A Dallas Mavericks Academy clinic introduced more than 220 children to basketball through four high-energy sessions. The event also launched registration for Mercy Street's largest winter basketball league to date, which grew to 375 players across 37 teams. Mercy Street later joined the Mavericks Academy, St. Philip's School and Community Center, and Boys & Girls Clubs for the inaugural CityHoops Tournament, where 30 teams from across North Texas competed.

Presence in the Community

The Sports team strengthened its presence at Villa Creek, Lakeview, Kingbridge and the Hamptons, which are the Dallas Housing Authority properties that our facilities are embedded within. Each week our team spent daily afternoons building trusting relationships with students through games, meals, fellowship, and consistent care.

These relationships have flourished and have been the entry-point for students into the rest of Mercy Street programming. Children first encountered through neighborhood outreach began participating in basketball, baseball, soccer, flag football, After School, and Summer Camp. We cover 100% of the cost for all students who live within Dallas Housing Authority properties so that all families have access to these opportunities, ensuring that no child is turned away.

Summer flag football grew nearly 40 percent, serving 252 players across 24 teams. Mercy Street also hosted soccer programming with FC Dallas and Brother Bill's Helping Hand, community World Cup watch parties, baseball All-Star teams, and a football camp for 100 children in partnership with the SMU Baseball players and coaches. Summer Camp participants received instruction in volleyball, basketball, soccer, and archery.

Through every practice, neighborhood visit, and conversation, the Sports team continued pursuing its central purpose: sharing the love of Jesus and cultivating relationships that can transform lives.

We need coaches!

We need more coaches to keep up with the rising number of registrations. Scan the QR code for more information!

Spring at the Sports Complex

Spring brought some of the year's greatest energy to the Mercy Street Sports Complex. Opening Day welcomed athletes and families back for another season and was paired with the annual Easter Eggstravaganza, creating an opportunity for the broader community to gather, celebrate, and experience Mercy Street together.

IMPACT STORY

From T-Ball to Graduation

Edgar Morales first entered the Mercy Street Sports Program as a six-year-old t-ball player. A few years later, he joined a baseball team coached by Brian Roy, who now serves as Mercy Street's Director of Sports Operations. Their connection grew into a mentoring relationship that continued for more than a decade.

Edgar's journey took him through several schools and communities across Dallas. He experienced academic setbacks and difficult seasons. Brian remained present, following Edgar's progress, encouraging him, sharing Scripture, and reminding him of the qualities God had placed within him.

Over the years, Brian gave Edgar baseballs inscribed with character qualities and attributes of God. He also gave him Bibles that Edgar still keeps and reads. In spring 2026, Edgar's family returned the gesture by giving Brian a commemorative baseball bearing Edgar's name, number, high school, and upcoming achievement. That May, Edgar became the first person on either side of his family to graduate from high school. He honored Brian in his senior-day baseball speech and presented him with a matching jersey to wear alongside Edgar's family at graduation.

Their relationship reflects the heart of Mercy Street. A child entered the ministry through sports. A coach chose to remain present. Years of faithful investment helped a young man reach a milestone his family had prayed to see. Along the way, each of their lives (and the lives of their families) were mutually transformed through the love and pursuit of Jesus Christ.

Building Relationships that Transform Lives

Mentoring begins with relationships. Whether a young person is connected with a dedicated 1:1 mentor, gathering with friends for Bible Study, or participating in a conference created to encourage and equip them, each experience provides another opportunity to be known, supported, and reminded of who God created them to be.

This year, 63 active mentors continued to faithfully invest in young people, walking alongside them through everyday challenges, important milestones, and seasons of growth. Five new 1:1 mentoring matches were formed, creating new relationships rooted in consistency, encouragement, and Christ-centered care. Mercy Street also provided in-school programming on five campuses, allowing staff to connect with students within their school communities.

Weekly 8:18 Bible Study provided another important place for students to belong and grow. Throughout the year, 134 unique students participated, including 92 middle school and 42 high school students. Around shared meals, conversation, games, and Scripture, students found a welcoming community where they could ask questions, deepen their faith, and build relationships with trusted adults and with one another.

Built Different and She's Different conferences created additional opportunities for students to explore faith, identity, purpose, and the unique ways God has equipped them. Together, the gender-specific conferences welcomed 127 students, with 61 participating in Built Different and 66 attending She's Different.

Across each of these experiences, Mercy Street continues to create spaces where young people are surrounded by adults who care deeply, show up consistently, and point them toward Christ as they grow into who God has called them to be.

IMPACT STORY

From Student to Disciple Maker

Corey first connected with Mercy Street as a wide receiver on the L.G. Pinkston High School varsity football team. During the season, he told Wesley Hawthorne, Mercy Street's Mentoring and Leadership Coordinator, that he wanted to grow closer to God. Soon, Corey began spending Wednesday afternoons at Mercy Street with several teammates, sharing meals, building relationships, and studying the Bible together.

As Corey's faith deepened, he gave his life to Christ. He and two teammates later made a public declaration of their faith through baptism at the Lakewest swimming pool. This summer, Corey continued his journey at Stoney Creek Ranch, where he helped younger students strengthen their own relationships with Christ. He found meaningful work, a strong sense of family, and a place he hopes to return to next year.

Corey's story reflects the heart of Mercy Street's mission: a young person transformed through a relationship with Christ, then equipped to help others know and follow Him.

Leadership Institute 2026

Mercy Street's Leadership Institute helps young people discover their strengths, build confidence, and gain meaningful experiences that prepare them to lead with purpose. This year, 28 students participated in opportunities designed to expand their vision for what is possible while developing practical skills for their future.

Through junior apprenticeships, students gained hands-on work experience, learned the value of responsibility and teamwork, and explored potential career paths. Corporate partners and local professionals opened doors for students to experience workplaces firsthand, build relationships, and learn from adults representing a variety of industries and professions.

Leadership development also extended beyond the workplace. Students participated in learning experiences that encouraged personal growth, strengthened life skills, and challenged them to apply what they were learning in new environments.

IMPACT STORY

Choosing Salvation at Summer Camp

At Stoney Creek Ranch Camp, students experienced a week centered on faith, relationships, adventure, and personal growth. While there, 17 students made the decision to trust Christ for the first time or recommit their lives to Him, ringing the bell as a public declaration of their faith.

Mercy Street operates one of only two pools available in West Dallas, where the Aquatics Program equips the community's youngest and most vulnerable children with fundamental swimming skills, water safety education, and drowning-prevention training, with plans to serve 500 children and 75 adults annually.

As a certified Red Cross Training Facility, Mercy Street will also provide CPR, First Aid, and lifeguard certification for up to 25 teens each year, creating pathways to careers in aquatics, recreation, and public safety.

MERCYstreet summer camp

A Summer of Learning, Faith & Discovery

For 100 children in grades K–5th, Mercy Street's Passport to Fun Summer Camp meant continued learning, daily meals, swimming instruction, new experiences, and consistent opportunities to grow in faith throughout the summer. With 62% of campers reading below grade level, the program provided critical academic support during months when children can lose valuable learning progress, while creating a safe, Christ-centered environment where they could build confidence, relationships, and new skills.

Campers participated in daily reading and math activities, including individualized IXL practice designed to strengthen skills and address learning gaps. Daily meals and snacks also helped meet an important need for children and families living in a community with limited access to nutritious food.

Beyond academics, campers developed confidence and an essential life and safety skill through swimming instruction. Specialized mini-camps in Culinary Arts, Ballet, Lego STEM, Karate, Basketball, and Archery introduced children to interests they may not otherwise have had an opportunity to explore. Weekly field trips expanded their exposure to educational, recreational, and cultural experiences beyond their immediate community.

Faith remained central throughout the summer. Daily Bible study helped campers connect Scripture with their choices, relationships, character, and everyday lives. Through group activities and shared experiences, children also strengthened teamwork, independence, problem-solving, and social-emotional skills.

By summer's end, children had received weeks of continued academic instruction, daily nutrition, swimming and water-safety development, weekly enrichment and field experiences, and daily biblical teaching.

MERCYstreet after school

In its very first year, Mercy Street After School grew from a new program into a thriving, Christ-centered community where students strengthened academic skills, built meaningful relationships, and experienced what it means to be loved, valued, and seen. The inaugural year established a strong foundation for serving 41 West Dallas children and families while producing measurable academic, relational, and spiritual impact.

Academic growth provided an encouraging early measure of success. During weekly IXL sessions, students reached proficiency in 60% of targeted skills and mastery in 50%. With reading comprehension identified as a significant area of need, staff provided intentional academic support alongside homework assistance and enrichment. One first-grade student entered the program 10 points below the expected math level and, after only two and a half months of focused practice, closed the gap and reached grade level.

Relationships and faith shaped the daily experience. Through prayer, shared meals, mentoring, enrichment, and encouragement, students developed a strong sense of belonging while learning lessons about service, unity, responsibility, and faith that extended into their homes.

The first year also established valuable partnerships. SMU volunteers supported students and staff, Dallas Afterschool selected Mercy Street as a site for its mastery program, and the Freshque Foundation helped provide meals and gifted new shoes to every student.

For an inaugural year, the results tell an encouraging story: measurable academic progress, trusted relationships with families, growing community partnerships, and daily opportunities for children to experience the Gospel. Mercy Street After School enters year two with a proven foundation for deeper impact across West Dallas.

appeal from the board chair

Mercy. Defined as showing compassion, kindness, and forgiveness beyond what fairness requires. We all fall under God's mercy. Lamentations 3:22-23 reminds us that "the steadfast love of the Lord never ceases; his mercies never come to an end; they are new every morning; great is His faithfulness." In this paradigm, we can only be mutually transformed through our relationship with Jesus Christ as his mercies are new every day. It's a promise. It's non-negotiable.

Street. The word street has its origins in the Latin strata meaning "paved road" meant to provide the public with a solid thoroughfare by which to travel. The street is a public easement, one of the few spaces shared by all sorts of people. You can walk down the street, drive down the street, or ride down the street, but you have the street beneath you – trusted, sturdy, and strong – a path you can trust. Psalm 119:105 reminds us that "thy word is a lamp unto my feet and a light unto my path."

1 Thessalonians 2:8 reads, "So we care for you. Because we loved you so much, we are delighted to share with you not only the gospel of God but our lives as well." In the same way that the Lord covers us with his mercy – every day. In the same way that the Lord guides our steps and lights our path – every day. In the same way that the City of Dallas provides opportunity for those willing to go to work – every day. The ministry of Mercy Street is at work providing hope, pathways, and futures to the children, families, and future citizens of West Dallas, and South Dallas.

As a mentor of Mercy Street, as the Board President of Mercy Street this past year, and as a child of God who receives His new mercies every day, I have never been prouder to be associated with this great ministry. The heart, soul, mission, and results of this ministry are on display every day through the lives of its staff, volunteers, mentors, and mentees. The existence of mutual transformation is on display with Christ at the center. Is it any wonder why the ministry has prospered, provided hope, and provided futures for the children of its ministry?

As we look forward to the coming year, we know that the effort to continue raising capital is as tremendous as the opportunities God is placing in front of us. On behalf of the Board, we will be commencing a capital campaign to raise $10 million dollars to increase programming and provide necessary upgrades to our fields, facilities, and infrastructure. After walking through the paces as a mentor for the past 15 years, I believe we need a bold community campaign to not only lift up this incredible ministry, but to allow it to soar to new heights.

We need you. We need bold prayers. We need bold vision. We need bold support. Together, we can embolden the Mercy Street Team, the children of Mercy Street, and the future of this ministry to God be the glory.

Sincerely,

Paul Jackson

Mercy Street, Board President

capital campaign

dream center

Mercy Street has an ongoing vision to provide expanded space for our students to learn, grow, and have ginormous dreams! With this in mind, we continued to pray for the funds needed to launch and complete the renovation of The Dream Center. Well, dreams continue to come true! July 2025 marked the launch and completion of our center!

The Mercy Street Dream Center offers state-of-the-art studios and technology, including a computer lab, audio and podcast studio, and video studio with editing and listening labs. These spaces are designed to expose our students to global best practices and teach them exemplary skills, inviting them to flourish.

The Dream Center also offers a robust workshop, equipped with workbenches and workstations designed for students to learn certified training, life skills, and trades in carpentry, electrical, HVAC, plumbing, and other relevant trades. The workshop environment can also serve as a high-tech incubator for learning robotics, virtual reality, and many other emerging fields.

Additionally, the Dream Center offers multipurpose space for other programming and community needs, including Bible Studies, certification courses, intimate-sized birthday parties, small group meetings, and other smaller gatherings that need space to cultivate relationships. The Dream Center's new staffing area is also a location where we can plan and develop future programming for our students.

Contact us about unique partnership opportunities within this new space!

lakewest multipurpose center

The Lakewest Multipurpose Center provides space for Mercy Street to continue to expand programming for students in West Dallas.

In 2023, Mercy Street introduced winter basketball at the Lakewest facility in response to the community's strong demand for an indoor winter sport. Our prayer was that basketball would create a foundation for restoring and expanding the programs and sports once offered at Lakewest by faithful community organizations.

In 2024, Mercy Street continued to offer winter basketball and added volleyball.

In 2025, Mercy Street partnered with the Dallas Housing Authority and other faithful donors to renovate the Lakewest Facility, replacing the flooring, upgrading the classrooms and gym, and enhancing the capacity of the kitchen and laundry room. The renovation also included reopening the swimming pool, which had been closed since 2020 at the height of the pandemic. The opening of the pool this past summer excited our kids as we expanded Summer Camp to 100 students in grades K- 5th. The highlight of the summer experience was watching kids who could not swim pass the swimming test before the end of Summer Camp.

In addition to the other programming areas, completion of the renovation will allow our students and the community to enjoy expanded use of the Lakewest Facility with the reopening of the fitness center, game room, multipurpose rooms, and classrooms.
